

“Tonight, I want to invite each and every one of you to think about joining me in starting a home-based business.

If you are a busy parent and are thinking, why would I want to add a business to my already crazy hectic life, would you enjoy having a business that you could do right alongside your family and other activities and add income to the family budget at the same time?

I know some of you work full time and are thinking why would I want to add a business to my life? Would you enjoy getting to make the decisions after having worked all day for someone who did that for you? Would you enjoy knowing you have some choices for the future?

I know some of you are retired or approaching retirement and are thinking, why would I want a business after working all these years? Would you like to have a business where you would have plenty of time to do all those things you have been waiting to do, extra money to help you do them and still continue to grow personally and professionally.

I know some of you are just becoming familiar with our products tonight and I am so glad you are here. I do believe that this business can fit into anyone’s lifestyle and I do hope you will all think about joining me. Now for the reason you are here, let’s talk about our products.”
